original amendment up there is, and then maybe I won't take much time to close when that time comes along. But remember, we looked at the terminology for a state-owned facility or state-regulated industry, and we changed that to state-sponsored industry, rather than state-regulated industry or event; we did that in several places in the bill. We added a provision that said that a gift is within one calendar month and it's any gifts with an aggregate value of more than $50. And then finally we defined or tried to define relative, and you can see how...actually how confusing that can be. So I'm hoping that we do get some kind of broad language that works for defining relative. Overall, I think we've done a lot of good things with the bill. I think we've made things more understandable to the public. I think we've put some consistency into the bill. I don't mean the language of the bill will be more understandable, Senator Janssen; I mean the reporting will be more understandable because they will see exactly what's being spent in aggregate amounts. And I think that will be very helpful. We've also made some...made some gifts broadly defined and we've included, under gifts, the sponsoring agencies, political subdivisions or postsecondary educational institutions. And I think those are some of the really good things we've done with this bill. I hope that we can complete this amendment fairly quickly and move on to other business, because I know we have a lot of agenda left today. I'm hopeful that some of those bills, like LB 1116, won't take very long, I know. That will be a two-minute bill at most. And I'm sure that we can work on through the agenda. You've all been very patient and very helpful this morning. So, with that, I will conclude my remarks and hope that somebody else has turned on their light in the meanwhile.

SENATOR CUDABACK: Thank you, Senator Schimek. Senator Coordsen, did you wish to...

SENATOR COORDSEN: Senator Wickersham is crafting an amendment as we speak and is copying out of another body of law, 21-1710, which provides the definition for immediate family. It will be done here in just a matter of a few moments. If I could do a Coordsen imitation, I suppose, and speak more slowly than what might normally be the course of events, it will read something to the effect that relative shall mean any person related either
